General Comment

I've been spending much time on learning and training on making the proper trades in options in my traditional IRA and if people are trained correctly and shown the conservative approach to trading options by selling low ball puts and selling covered calls these are excellent ways of growing their account balances.

I highly recommend that this rule (RIN 1210 - AB32) does not go through.

Losing the right to trade options in my IRA would be devastating to growing my account balance!

Sincerely,

David S. Anderson
